

Egypt Likely To Close PLO Office In Cairo

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt is cracking down on Palestinians in Cairo in retaliation for the radical Arabs' war on President Anwar Sadat.

A Palestinian spokesman said three top Palestinian officials were arrested Tuesday night and would be expelled from the country. It appeared likely that the government would close the Palestine Liberation Organization's office in the Egyptian capital.

The officials were Gamal Sourani, the PLO's permanent representative; Ribhi Awad, representative of Al Fatah, the largest guerrilla group in the PLO, and Ahmed Sakhr Basaso, head of the Palestinian Student Union.

Last week the government closed down the Palestinians' Cairo radio station after it broadcast a PLO statement denouncing Sadat's visit to Israel.

The PLO speaks today in the U.N. General Assembly debate on the Middle East and was certain to condemn Sadat. It was not known whether Egypt's ambassador to the United Nations, A. Esmat Abdel Meguid, would boycott the session or would walk out when the attack started.

Meguid on Tuesday left the assembly hall when Syrian Ambassador Mowaffak Allaf accused the Egyptian president of "surrendering to the Zionist butchers" and "stabbing the Arab peoples in the backs" by visiting Israel.

It was the first time an Arab delegate had walked out on another Arab delegate's speech at the United Nations.

Sadat has said repeatedly he would not make a separate peace with Israel, and during his visit to Jerusalem he reiterated the Arab demands for Israel's withdrawal from all territory occupied in the 1967 war and for a Palestinian state. But the Syrians and the Palestinians fear he will come to terms with Israel without getting satisfaction for their demands, as he did in the Sinai disengagement agreement of 1975, and Syria was reported preparing to introduce a U.N.

An informed diplomat said the resolution, after expressing satisfaction with last month's U.S.-Soviet statement in favor of a Geneva conference and Palestinian rights, "urges the parties to the conflict and all other parties to avoid any partial agreement or arrangement which ignores the core of the problem."

The "core of the problem" to the Palestinians is their demand for their own state on the West Bank of the Jordan River, while to the Syrians it is the return of the Golan Heights.

Syria and the PLO, in a statement issued in Damascus Tuesday, called on all the Arabs and the rest of the world to join in condemnation of Sadat's visit to Jerusalem.

The leftist Arab governments in Iraq, Libya, Algeria and South Yemen also have denounced Sadat as a traitor to Arab unity, while Sudan, Tunisia, Morocco and Oman have supported him. Other Arab governments have been silent.

Dr. Bernard Retires Because Of Arthritis In His Hands

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Ten years after he performed the world's first successful heart transplant, Dr. Christiaan Barnard is getting ready to put away his scalpel because of arthritis in his hands.

"I operated yesterday ... it was absolute agony," the 55-year surgeon said in an interview a few days ago.

"Every stitch that I put in and tie is such an agony. I felt so bad I started using cortisone again, the last thing I want to use.

"It is difficult to say just how long I've got. But I think I probably will — maybe — last until the end of next year, and that will probably be the end."

Barnard has traveled a long road since Dec. 2, 1967, when with suit crumpled and hair untidy, he told a news conference in a rolling Afrikaans accent that he had cut out the ailing heart of a businessman and replaced it with the heart of a 25-year-old girl killed that day in a road accident.

A decade later the clothes are immaculate. A heavy gold watch gleams as he excitedly describes his latest surgical activity, criticizes the press, declares he would fight to prevent black rule in his racially divided country and concedes defeat in his latest attempts to save two cardiac victims by transplanting baboon and chimpanzee hearts into them.

The doctor says he has changed little in the past 10 years, except to become suspicious of people. This he blames on the mass media, which he accuses of exploiting him personally, causing heart donors to shun him and of misrepresenting South Africa generally.

There are other changes. He is no longer a little-known surgeon living in a modest suburban home with a wife and two children.

Now he is a jet-setter who has mixed with heads of state and film stars and who has a rich wife half his age. He is in constant demand as a guest speaker or sponsor of causes.

His take-home pay as a surgeon at Cape Town's Groote Schuur Hospital and as a medical professor is $1,300 a month. He gave the proceeds of his most successful book, "One Life," to a medical research fund named after him, but he estimates he has earned $230,000 from his other books.

His 27-year-old second wife, Barbara, is the daughter of a wealthy Johannesburg industrialist and has been described as the most beautiful woman in South Africa. They have two small sons.

Barnard's reaction to the approaching end of active surgery reflects his personal life to a degree.

"It worries you as much as divorcing a woman to whom you have been married for 30 years," he says. "Although you find life with her has become intolerable, it's still sad to leave her."

Weather

Cloudy with showers today turning to drizzle by late afternoon and a high near 50. Mostly cloudy tonight and Thursday with tonight's low in the low 40's and Thursday's high in the upper 40's. Chances of precipitation, 70 percent today, 50 percent tonight and 10 percent Thursday. Chance of showers Friday with a high in the upper 40's and a low near 30. Tuesday's high was 42 with a low of 37.

business career," she said.

Mrs. Hughes, who in almost nine months in jail crocheted a bedspread for her mother and three afghans for her children, said she now spends time baking bread and cookies, getting ready for the holidays and rediscovering her children, who are aged 6 to 12.

She and the children have settled temporarily in a modest two-story frame home with her mother in Jackson. It was here that she left high school at the age of 16 to marry Hughes, her sweetheart. She said he began to beat her shortly after they were married in 1963, and continued

"Although life with surgery has become very painful and very distressing, still there is sadness in leaving it because I have been with it so long."

The first transplant patient, Louis Washkansky, 53, survived 19 days. Since then Barnard and his team at Groote Schuur Hospital have performed 11 total heart transplants, and two of the patients are still alive.

Barnard's last total transplant was

The Turkey Is A Stupid Bird

WASHINGTON (AP) — The turkey you will sit down to tomorrow was a stupid, nervous bird. So stupid it probably had to be taught how to eat in the first place and so nervous that opening a cage door likely sent it up the wall.

Here's some more turkey lore on this day before Thanksgiving:

—Benjamin Franklin thought the turkey, not the eagle, should have been our national bird.

You have to give the fowl credit for trying to live up to the honor: when a wild turkey is provoked, structures around its throat called caruncles swell to varying hues of red, white and blue.

—Turkeys were named after Turkey, correct.

The bird's exotic plumage caused folks to think it must have come from a far-away land, like Turkey or India.

England opted for the former; other lands went with India.

Today, the gobbler is called indyk in Poland, gallo d'India in Italy, coq d'India or dindon in France and indeiskil petukh in Russia.

—Turkeys are stupid. Newly hatched gobblers have to be taught to eat. Turkeys don't know enough to get out of the rain; they often catch pneumonia because they can't find the poultry-house door.

Female turkeys stand upright while laying, and if eggs survive the average 10-inch drop, the males sometimes try to break them.

—The Pilgrims weren't too astonished at the bird; in fact they brought some over on the boat in 1620. Spaniards had imported tame Mexican turkeys to Europe in 1519 and they reached England in 1524. The Pilgrims made it sort of a round trip.

—Turkeys are nervous.

Someone opening a cage door can throw them into a tizzy. A paper fluttering in the wind can stampede them into a frantic pileup in the corner of their pen. Producers of large flocks sometimes have to resort to tranquilizers to keep the birds under control.

Wild turkeys, however, stand a chance to escape the dining table. Hunters find it tough to cope with their keen vision, acute hearing and turn of speed. In one Wisconsin turkey season, 1,100 hunters managed to bag a bare total of 18 birds.

According to an Indian saying, "Any brave can kill a deer; it takes a chief to kill a turkey."

—Turkeys in American geography include Turkey, Texas; Turkey River, Iowa, and Turkey Flat, Ariz.

Anti-Smoking Project Being Evaluated

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The impact of an anti-smoking project run by students in the Wayne Local school district is being evaluated while efforts are under way to convince the school board that the program should be continued.

Known as the Student's Service Center, the project was launched last summer at Wayne High School and Studebaker and Weisenborn junior high schools to help students who wanted to quit smoking.

Working under project director Cathy Kreiner, 25 student-volunteers have been speaking in classrooms and to community groups on the hazards of smoking and counseling students who want to kick the habit.

The project has been funded with $8,500 from the National Inter-Agency Council on Smoking and Health through the Miami Valley Lung Association.

Hughes ripped up her books from classes at a nearby business school, then made her burn them. He pushed TV dinners onto the floor and made her pick up the food, then rubbed it into her hair.

Then, before falling asleep, he raped her.

Claiming self-defense and temporary insanity, Mrs. Hughes testified that she splashed gasoline around Hughes' bed, then set the fuel alight. Hughes suffocated in the blaze.

The verdict required a psychiatric examination for Mrs. Hughes. She could have been held 60 days but was released after two psychiatrists spent one hour with her and judged her sane.

Pall Of Smoke From Funeral Pyres Blankets India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The stench of rotting corpses and a pall of smoke from funeral pyres blanket stretches of India's southeast coast where a cyclone and tidal waves killed at least 10,000 persons last weekend. The Times of India said the death toll could reach 20,000, and tens of thousands of survivors were homeless.

The stricken state of Andhra Pradesh was "hell on earth," one newspaper report said.

Officials said as many as 100 villages were washed away by the towering waves generated by the storm. Countless bloated human corpses and animal carcasses were seen floating in flood waters.

"Overnight, villages have been turned into burial grounds," said the state education minister, Krishna Rac, after a tour.

He reported roads blocked by masses of uprooted trees and debris in which bodies of cattle and humans were tangled.

Bodies that could not be identified immediately were being burned on huge funeral pyres in an attempt to prevent the outbreak of disease. A reporter for the Samachar new agency said he saw thousands of corpses and carcasses in the worst-hit district of Divi Taluk.

"In some villages, the living were struggling for survival and have no time to attend to the dead," he reported. "They are so shocked they have ceased to cry."

The toll in Divi Taluk was estimated at 8,000 dead and the damage at $230 million. The state government estimated a total of at least 1.5 million acres of crops were destroyed, including banana and rice plantations, and floods covered more than 200 square miles of land.

Air force and navy planes and helicopters dropped more than 10 tons of food to isolated areas, but many stranded hungry survivors still had not been located, officials said.

CARE and United Nations organizations provided relief clothing, tarpaulins and cooking utensils.

It was the country's worst storm disaster since 1971, when a cyclone, the name used for hurricanes from the Indian Ocean, killed an estimated 10,000 persons in Orissa state, 750 miles to the north.

Storm Heads East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A storm that paralyzed parts of the Pacific Northwest with the heaviest November snowfall in two decades headed east today toward the upper Mississippi Valley.

Wyoming, battered by a storm that caused at least one death and stranded scores of travelers, braced for more heavy snow, and snow flurries stretched from the plains to Wisconsin.

Portland, Ore., which normally gets only eight inches of snow in an entire winter, was buried beneath seven inches in 13 hours Tuesday. It melted under an afternoon rain after bringing the area of 1 million people to a virtual standstill in the morning.

The city was spared further winter woes when freezing temperatures and more rain and snow failed to materialize as forecast early Wednesday.

The Portland snowfall equaled the November record, set on Nov. 16-17, 1965. Walla Walla in southeastern Washington recorded eight inches, its heaviest snowfall in five years.

A number of Oregon residents used cross-country skis to get to work. One was Loren Kramer, executive assistant to Gov. Bob Straub in Salem. "I thought it was great," he said of the 30-minute skiing trek over his normal 15-minute, three-mile bicycle ride to the office.

Portland International Airport kept one runway open, but ground travelers had the worst of it. Taxi drivers reported taking three hours to make the usual half-hour drive.

Across the Columbia River in Vancouver, Wash., the transit system shut down and officials canceled raising the city's Christmas tree.

Motorists were required to have chains on their tires to cross the Interstate 5 bridge between Washington and Oregon. Stalled vehicles backed up six miles.

Wyoming authorities said many vehicles were abandoned Tuesday night as a day of high winds and snow closed highways in the south-central areas of the state. Snowfall ranged from 11 inches at Rawlins to two inches at Rock Springs, about 105 miles away on Interstate 80.

Motels were reported full in both communities, and a community center in Rawlins housed another 155 stranded motorists.

A 55-year-old trucking company executive was found dead Tuesday morning about 175 yards from his stranded car in the industrial section of east Rawlins, police said. Authorities said William Neuman Jr. froze to death after apparently losing his way in blowing snow.

Winds of up to 70 miles an hour were blamed for power failures that blacked out sections of Rock Springs part of Tuesday afternoon.

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Francine Hughes feels an enormous sense of freedom, a freedom to stand outside and watch stars and cars and her breath "puff up in the air."

Life is different now, says the mother of four, who was catapulted to national attention by her trial for slaying the ex-husband who beat her for 14 years.

"I just enjoy it. I just take it in. I don't have to worry about what's at home," she said.

"What's at home" used to be ex-husband James Hughes.

It is now almost four weeks since she was acquitted to first-degree murder by reason of insanity.

"The other night I went out on the porch. It was dark. I watched the stars, watched the cars go by, my breath puff up in the air," she said.

The 30-year-old Mrs. Hughes said she is giddy and overwhelmed by requests for television appearances and newspaper interviews — and perplexed by the attention to her plight as a "battered woman."

"Before all this happened, I was like in a small world and it sort of overwhelms me. I don't understand still what's going on," she told The Associated Press Tuesday.

"I know that there are certain things that I really do want. I want to be successful at a job. I was headed for a

Jayne Byrne Fired By Chicago Mayor

CHICAGO (AP) — A week after denouncing Mayor Michael Bilandic for what she called his "fraudulent and conspiratorial" role in a taxi fare increase, consumer sales commissioner Jane Byrne arrived at City Hall to find her books and papers being packed into cardboard boxes.

On her desk was a letter of dismissal from Bilandic.

Mrs. Byrne, a favorite aide of the late Mayor Richard Daley, passed a lie detector test on her charges last week. On Monday, she said she was eager to testify before a federal grand jury Nov. 29 about the matter, which is under investigation by the Federal Trade Commission and the U.S. attorney's office.

Upstairs, Bilandic was telling a news conference that Mrs. Byrne was fired and that he, too, had passed a lie detector test on whether he took a bribe in the 11.7 percent fare increase, although Mrs. Byrne never said a payoff was involved.

The mayor declared the polygraph test settled the matter and walked out without answering questions.

John Reid of John Reid & Associates, the firm which gave both examinations, said the results show both Mrs. Byrne and Bilandic were telling the truth in answering the questions they were asked.

He said those results were possible because Mrs. Byrne's memo mentioned discussions she said she overheard between Bilandic and other parties, but did not specify any illegal behavior on Bilandic's part. Reid said the questions Bilandic answered were directed toward denying he had done anything illegal.

The mayor's responses, to questions he himself formulated, showed he did not take a bribe, did not participate in an illegal conspiracy, did not ask taxi officials to illegally dummy figures, and personally knows of no one who received a bribe to increase taxi rates.

Mrs. Byrne's test showed she heard Bilandic say he could hurry the passage of the fare increase along by "blowing up some other matter and tack the fare increase on in unfinished business," that she heard Bilandic tell the head of a taxi firm "to change the figures in his columns to add up right ...," and that she heard Bilandic and the taxi executive discuss the justification for the cab fare increase.

Reid said that on a fourth question, relating to a telephone conversation Mrs. Byrne claimed she overheard between Bilandic and a cab company attorney, there were "unexplained emotional responses" which made it impossible for the examiner to decide if the answer was true or false.

Mrs. Byrne's questions were determined by the Chicago Daily News, which arranged and paid for the examination.

"I know that Mayor Bilandic is lying," Mrs. Byrne told reporters in her office. She said her ouster was "as cheap as everything else that's been going on around here."

ODNR Sets New Rules Hearing

COLUMBUS—The Division of Parks and Recreation of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources (ODNR) will hold a public rules hearing Thursday, Dec. 15, in Columbus to discuss rule changes concerning the operation and use of state park facilities.

The public hearing will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Building C's conference room at ODNR's Fountain Square headquarters. Fountain Square is located just south of Northland Shopping Center at 1952 Belcher Drive in northeast Columbus.

The proposed rule changes would enable persons who are permanently or totally disabled to camp in state park camping areas at one-half the regular fee. They will also be allowed the same benefits as holders of Golden Buckeye Cards.

Under the proposed rules, Golden Buckeye Card holders will be entitled to reduced rates at state park cabin facilities from Tuesday following Labor Day weekend in September through Thursday preceding Memorial Day weekend in May. Currently, card holders are entitled to reduced rates from Nov. 1 through March 31.

Additional rule changes to be presented at the public hearing would: Permit overnight sleeping on boats in designated areas for a cost of $2 per night. Class A or B campers and holders of seasonal dock permits will be exempt from paying a fee.

Allow individuals not registered as campers to use a trailer waste station facility at a state park campground for a cost of $1.

Permit dogs, trained for the purpose of aiding deaf persons and being used to aid such persons, in state park cabins, lodges, beaches and campgrounds.

Prohibit any passengers, except the driver, from being in a motor vehicle while launching or loading a boat from a state park boat ramp.

Allow the waist floatation device referred to as the "belly boat" to be used when fishing on ODNR-maintained lakes. The "belly boat" is prohibited for use in swimming areas and ski zones.

A copy of the proposed rule changes may be obtained from the Division of Parks and Recreation, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Fountain Square, Columbus 43224.

Two Seriously Hurt In Accident

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Office is still investigating a two vehicle injury accident that occurred at 9:37 p.m. Tuesday night on U.S. Route 23 South at the intersection of DuPont Road.

One of the cars in the mishap was driven by Daniel May, 48, of Stone, Kentucky. His 1970 Ford Econoline van was completely demolished. The other car was driven by Thomas J. Sunwood of Columbus. It was a 1976 Audi Fox, and it too was completely destroyed.

Details of the accident have not yet been released by Deputy J.R. Fite of the Pickaway County Sheriff's Office, pending completion of the investigation.

May received multiple lacerations, abrasions, and severe internal injuries. He was transported to Berger Hospital by the Wellman Funeral Home Ambulance, where he was given emergency treatment. He was then transported to Doctor's North Hospital in Columbus. Authorities there told the Herald this morning that he was a patient in the intensive care section.

Sunwood received multiple lacerations and abrasions. He was transported to Berger Hospital by the Circleville Emergency Medical Squad, where he was treated and released.

A passenger in the Sunwood auto, Kyong S. Hwang, Columbus, received a severe laceration to the head and a severe skull fracture in the crash. She was taken to Berger Hospital for initial treatment by the Mader Funeral Home Ambulance. Later she was taken to Mt. Carmel West Hospital in Columbus. A hospital spokesman said this morning that she was listed in fair condition.

Both Sunwood and Ms. Hwang were trapped in their auto for a short time after the collision.

Both northbound lanes of U.S. 23 were blocked until nearly 11 p.m. Tuesday night. Northbound traffic was re-routed through one southbound lane.

The Pickaway Twp. Fire Department had three pieces of equipment on the scene to wash spilled gasoline and debris from the roadway.

Personnel at the scene of the crash besides Deputy Fite included Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, Detective J. Phillip Brown, City Solicitor John Adkins, and Pickaway County Deputies Don Hamilton, Gene Kerns, and Mike McGinnis.

Life Has Been Difficult For Cole

SEATTLE (AP) — Life has been difficult for Craig Cole ever since another chap by the same name told $70,000 in a paper bag into a car dealership and bought a Stutz Blackhawk VI.

"Things have been irretrievably altered as a result of the publicity," says Cole, who works for the state Human Rights Commission.

"I mean, really. My wife and mother no longer speak to me, news reporters and creditors call day and night, and so do my friends. All because my name is Craig Cole — but not the Craig Cole who bought the fancy car and owns exotic dance studios."

The Cole who owns the Stutz bought the car to promote his string of dance studios and other businesses. Newspapers across the country reported the purchase.

"I drive a Gremlin with a dent in the side," grumbled the other Cole.

Medical Technician Moves To Put-In-Bay

PUT-IN-BAY, Ohio (AP) — The 350 residents of South Bass Island and vacationers who travel there can feel a little safer since Valerie and Bruce Mettler moved to the area.

Mettler, 31, accepted a position with Put-In-Bay Township to live in a community-provided house and serve the residents of the isolated Lake Erie island as an emergency medical technician. He works in conjunction with Dr. Heinz Boker who flies in three days a week.

Mettler was on the life support team of an Akron area hospital. He also was a cardiopulmonary resuscitation instructor and EKG technician.

Williamsport News

By EILEEN EASTERDAY, Phone 986-3481

There have been many pleasant happenings since I began writing this column a number of years ago but one of the nicest "fringe benefits" happened Friday evening when I was one of the special guests at the 30th anniversary dinner of the Johnson-Miner American Legion Post 618 held at the Pickaway Country Club. Mrs. Fred Tipton, owner, editor and publisher of the local weekly newspaper was also a special guest.

I take this opportunity to publicly thank the Legionnaires for including me in this special event. I consider it a real honor and truly appreciate the thoughtfulness. Being thoughtful is indicative of our Post 618, however, because community concern has always been their watchword. And what makes the picture a totally good one is the fact that the community cares about the Legionnaires. This is evidenced by the supportive role the community plays in all Legion projects.

Extra special guests invited to the anniversary dinner were the eight continuous charter members and those members who attained 30 year memberships during November. Receiving handsome plaques signifying their charter status were Curtis Keller, Harry Junior Keller, Paul Whitesed, Warren Wright, Harold "Red" Fry and Harold Vorhees who were present and Don McDill and Plin Morris who will receive theirs at a later date. Thirty year pins were presented to Aulten and Dona Carter (husband and wife members) and John Drummond. Also to receive 30 year pins are Karl Morrison, Harold Schein, Clarence West and Judge William Radcliff.

On Oct. 17, 1947, 29 veterans who had been in the service of their country met and became Johnson-Miner American Legion Post 618. They chose to honor Vonley Johnson, first Williamsport boy to lose his life in World War I and Lyle Miner, first Williamsport lad to be killed in World War II. The 29 who signed the charter were Ray Upperman, George Whitesed, David Adams, the late Mont Vorhees, Ralph Hurley, Plin Morris, Neil Frazier, Warren Wright, Harold Vorhees, the late Kervyn Morrison, Denman McAllister, Paul Whitesed, Kirk Whitesed, Don Wing, Harry Keller Jr., the late Warren Straley who was the first commander, Harold Fry, Charles Gallaher, Jim Clark, Frank Dyke, Chester Dyke, Junior Mills, Russell Keller, Don McDill, Mario Steinhauer, Glenn Morris, W. B. Johnson, Robert England and Curtis Keller.

The first meeting was held in the pavilion and then for a modest sum the group rented the upper quarters of the former Ray Ulm Hardware Store. A few years later, they moved to the upstairs of the Smiley property, which also housed Archie's Market downstairs. This continued to be the meeting place until May 11, 1962 when the Legionnaires acquired the property known as the parish house from the Williamsport Methodist Church. The fellows added inside plumbing and updated the building some and it has been a center of community activities ever since. A plaque over the front entrance is a memorial to Frank Sollars, first local boy killed in action during the Vietnam conflict.

Presently commander of the post is Marvin Thompson and his corps of officers are Dona Carter, first vice commander; David Snyder, second vice commander; Sam Cornwell, adjutant; Paul Schein, treasurer; Junior Keller, chaplain. The officers and Ray Valone, committeeman, planned the excellent buffet dinner and the fine program that followed. Roger White, a true virtuoso at the piano, went down the memory lane of time with his music bringing to mind happy, frivolous, sentimental, romantic, merry and mellow times.

Wayne Smith provided a provocative magical moment with his tricks of magic that left his audience spellbound. Smith has audience participation in his act and this adds a great deal of interest.

Each table had a lovely centerpiece of red, white and blue flowers with the same colors in the ribbon and a miniature flag arranged in low golden bowls. These were given as door prizes and the winners were Millie Keller, Cora Beatty, Helen Whitesed, Mary Alice Schein, Norma Drummond, Jean Valone and Loretta Keller. Several of those gave "off the cuff" comments of reminiscence. It was an evening worth remembering for many years to come.

The present membership rolls number 62 and there is an effort afoot to increase this number. Any eligible male or female is encouraged to become a member. One of the important criteria, naturally, would be a sincere desire and willingness to become involved in community concerns because that makes up a Post 618 member.

To witness a shining example of this in action, be sure to attend the Legion Community Christmas planning meeting to be held 2 p.m. Nov. 27 at the Legion Hall. The Christmas Party began in 1948 on the proverbial shoestring, but backing it up was the desire, willingness and hope. Over the years it has grown into one of the most anticipated affairs held in the village. It is a joint venture of hard working Legionnaires and support from local organizations, businesses and interested citizens. The comment was made, "the Legion is dear to our hearts," and this says it very well for all of us. They are indeed held in the highest esteem.

Farm Bureau Sets Square Dance At Clark's Lake

The Clark's Lake Farm Bureau Youth Council will be sponsoring a square dance Saturday from 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. at the Clark's Lake Civic Center near Orient.

Eastern and western square dance calling will be by Ed Laudenslager of Groveport.

The youth council advisers are Pat Windon and Sue Egelhoff. The public is invited to attend. There will be a small admission charge.

Enrollment Down In Kettering Schools

KETTERING, Ohio (AP) — Kettering city school superintendent John T. Lucas has recommended that three elementary buildings and one junior be closed because of continued declining enrollment in the suburban Dayton district.

About 650 students a year are expected to leave the district. If the plan is adopted by the school board, the system would be reduced to three junior high schools and 11 elementaries.

Attorney General Bill Sent By House To Gov. Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill expanding the attorney general's power to investigate suspected antitrust violations was sent to Gov. James A. Rhodes Tuesday by the House.

The legislation, proposed by Attorney General William J. Brown, won 77-8 House approval in a vote concurring with Senate amendments.

It would allow Brown's office to subpoena witness and require suspects to respond in writing to questionnaires in price-fixing or other anti-competitive practices cases.

The bill would give the attorney general enforcement power in this area comparable to that held by the U.S. Justice Department under federal law.

Businessmen could seek court relief, forcing the attorney general to prove "reasonable cause to believe" that they have information relevant to an antitrust probe.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Over the river, and through the wood,
To grandfather's house we go;
The horse knows the way,
To carry the sleigh,
Through the white and drifted snow.

Over the river, and through the wood—
Oh, how the wind does blow!
It stings the toes,
And bites the nose,
As over the ground we go.

Over the river, and through the wood,
To have a first-rate play.
Hear the bells ring,
"Ting-a-ling-ding!"
Hurrah for Thanksgiving Day!
Over the river and through the wood
Trot fast, my dapple-gray!
Spring over the ground
Like a hunting-hound!
For this is Thanksgiving Day.

Over the river and through the wood
And straight through the barn-yard gate.
We seem to go
Extremely slow,—
It is so hard to wait!

Over the river and through the wood—
Now grandmother's cap I spy!
Hurrah for the fun!
Is the pudding done?
Hurrah for the pumpkin-pie!

Technology Slipping

As Washington and Tokyo become more deeply involved in the trade dispute between the two nations, caused by Japan's growing trade surplus in its dealings with the U. S., a few farsighted individuals are beginning to ask more penetrating questions.

Has the steam gone out of American inventiveness? Are other industrial nations gaining on such important factors as productivity and research? It is difficult to believe that could happen, considering the leadership role long played by the U.S. in scientific and technological advances. But there is some evidence that lead could be softening.

Last year the National Science Foundation sent Congress a report indicating that the United States, while still ahead in scientific and technological pursuits, had been slipping since the 1950s. Cited as one indicator was the fact the U.S. has been spending a declining percentage of its gross national product on research and development while nations like Japan, West Germany and the Soviet Union have been increasing their outlays for this purpose.

Also noted was the fact that more than 30 percent of the patents issued by the U. S. Patent Office now go to foreign inventors. Changes of this nature generally are slow to occur, but unless reversed they can have a long lasting effect on the respective economies of the competing nations.

While the immediate effects of the trade imbalance between Japan and the U.S. are serious, a permanent solution for the U. S. may not be found until more attention is paid to the causes.

Matter Of Elimination

By JIM BISHOP

Ed Feely has a tolerant eye for Kojak. Telly Savalas is fun to watch, but lieutenants are never insolent to their superiors. Feely was assistant chief inspector in charge of Homicide Manhattan East. His men addressed him with respect, even when they thought he was wrong.

There are more than one million people living and working in Manhattan East. Ed brought a good sense of humor to his work, which was murder. If he was unable to laugh, he might have been taken away.

His district ranged from the Lower East Side, where the desperately poor kill for profit, on up through well-heeled Sutton Place and Park Avenue, where the same crime may be done for love — or lack of it, on up to Harlem, where it can be accomplished for being overdue on a loan payment.

Ed Feely enjoyed mathematics. When a murder was committed, all the chief had to do was eliminate 999,999 persons and he had his man. Or woman. No burning of rubber skidding around corners. No rooftop races roaring "Freeze!" No sarcasm.

He was lying in bed one night thinking of a little black girl. Her name was Robin Joyner. She was four years old. She clung to her mother because she didn't remember her father. Robin lived in a flat at Seventh Avenue and 146th Street.

The neighborhood women said she was a sweet girl. Whatever momma told her was gospel. After school she went out to play. The weather was chilly. Robin wore a brown cloth coat. She grabbed the hand of her cousin and edged out between two parked cars.

The cousin saw the taxi coming. It was fast. He dropped Robin's hand and leaned back against a fender. The cab hit Robin and she skidded down the pavement on her face. The driver stopped. He jumped out.

People were watching. He was a big Negro. "Don't worry," he said. "She ain't hurt bad. I'll take her to the hospital." He picked up a 35-pound doll. He got in and drove off. It was a good gesture.

The cousin ran upstairs and told Mrs. Joyner. She ran to the street. She was a plump woman. Tears made satin furrows in her skin. She ran to the nearest hospital. Nurses soothed her hysteria. They had no little black girl; no taxi driver.

Robin's momma tried all the hospitals along the East Side. No one had seen her child. She went home. Two hours later, police called. They had found Robin. Someone had placed her body in front of the rear wheels of a parked truck. If the driver had moved the vehicle, he would have sworn he killed a youngster.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The revolving door of the executive suites are spinning more frustrated and angry chairmen and presidents out into the streets than at any time in recent history, says a professional courier.

"In one-third of the largest industrial corporations the teams at the top were not there five years ago," according to Eugene Jennings, who is a confidential adviser to some of them.

And they're not going willingly. More chairmen and presidents of Fortune 500 companies have departed under fire in the past three years than in any similar period since World War II, states Jennings, who has studied corporate mobility for nearly 30 years.

A professor of management at Michigan State University, and author of many books on corporate personnel strategy, Jennings monitors the movements of top managers in the very large companies. The power struggle has seldom been so intense, he reports.

For the first time since he began his statistical studies in 1948, said Jennings in an interview, the firing rate has exceeded the retirement rate for chairmen and presidents.

Add in the quit rate — 2 of every 3 who quit would be fired if they didn't do so, he says — and the early departures now amount to 1.5 times the retirement rate.

Jennings believes the implications are as serious for industry as for the individuals involved. "It reflects on the ability of corporations to nominate and develop top flight people," he said.

While this was once an area where American companies excelled, it clearly is one that will demand more attention in the future, he feels.

Jennings believes the accelerated turnover rate also reflects the uncertain, changing times that have put pressure on all institutions. He lists these reasons for firings:

Making the job more difficult for the top executive is the fact that in many companies facing new social and economic challenges, the standards of performance are not explicitly stated or even known.

The big issues in the highest corporate offices today involve more consideration of government, ethics, politics, society and other factors not immediately or directly connected with profits.

"It is very hard to find two or more people at the top who will agree on a corporate position regarding new ethical standards, government regulation...and social-economic interest groups," he said.

While resignations for "personal reasons" often masks office politics, some presidents and chairmen do quit for genuinely personal reasons.

Jennings has found that a relative few really decide they've had enough pressure and uncertainty and too little of sensible living.

Rather than being hurried into the revolving door they nudge it themselves, and walk out with their heads high and the feeling they have just begun to live.

They'll Do It Every Time

Fort Oranje

ST. EUSTATIUS, Netherlands Antilles (AP) — Fort Oranje, the ramparts of which the American frigate Andrew Doria was saluted as it pulled into harbor for ammunition to supply George Washington's armies, is being restored to its original condition, says the tourism office here.

The Netherlands Federal Buildings service has ordered 30,000 red bricks to rebuild bastions and to restore a newly-discovered wall.

Plans are also being made to restore an old market square and other historical sites on this tiny Caribbean island.

The American Automobile Association reported that in 1975 approximately 45,600 persons were killed and more than 1,800,000 injured in traffic accidents.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 23, the 327th day of 1977. There are 38 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1765, the British Stamp Act was first repudiated in the American Colonies — by the court of Frederick County in Maryland.

On this date:

In 1804, the 14th American president, Franklin Pierce, was born in Hillsborough, N.H.

In 1890, the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg was separated from the Netherlands.

In 1943, in World War II, U.S. Marines seized the island of Tarawa from the Japanese in fierce fighting in the Gilbert Islands.

In 1945, the United States ended wartime food rationing.

In 1970, a U.S. helicopter force landed at a prisoner of war camp in North Vietnam but did not find the American prisoners it had hoped to rescue.

In 1974, President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev held a long conference at the Soviet Asian port of Vladivostok.

Ten years ago: Anti-American demonstrations broke out in Ankara, Turkey as an American delegation arrived to try to help ease the Greek-Turkish crisis over the disputed island of Cyprus.

Five years ago: Bolivia declared a form of martial law — a state of siege — as the rightwing government reported a conspiracy to stage a coup.

One year ago: The French writer and art historian, Andre Malraux, died at the age of 75.

Thought for today: Get double security from your relatives — Ed Howe, American journalist, 1853-1937.

Democrat Richard R. Gerhardt was the winner in the race for Circleville Mayor. He defeated Republican Frank Barnhill by the narrow margin of 1,771 to 1,742. The contest wasn't decided until after 1 a.m. when the last precinct, I-G at Atwater School, reported.

A heavy fog blanketed the Roundtown area. A northside resident looked out her window and thought the billowing vapor was coming from a fire at a local chicken frying business.

Needless to say, firemen were a little bewildered when they responded to her call but said it was an honest mistake.

Circleville dominated the All South Central Ohio League team with the selection of Bill Gates, Jim Campbell, Jerry Myers, Craig Lambert, Tom Wright, Dick Thornton, Steve Carroll and Rod Sines.

The new Bingham Drugstore formally opened after the old one was destroyed in an explosion and fire.

LAFF - A - DAY

"I'd have been declared innocent if my character witness hadn't broken into those fits of uncontrollable laughter."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I was given a prescription for pills for high blood pressure. Since I began taking them, I have not been feeling well. I get feelings of nausea, am constantly tired, and I get feelings of pins and needles in my hands. Unfortunately, my doctor is sick. I don't know whether to continue taking the pills or to stop them entirely.

Mrs. M.J. Minn.

Dear Mrs. J.J.:

It is difficult for me to believe that your doctor did not leave someone to cover his practice during his illness. Should this, indeed, be the case, I most certainly would suggest consultation with another doctor just to be sure that you are not doing yourself an injustice by either continuing the medication or by discontinuing it, leaving your high blood pressure uncontrolled.

People react in different ways to all kinds of drugs. Simple and complex medical compounds can cause all kinds of side effects, as you did, it should be discontinued until its use is confirmed or denied by the doctor.

and is used in high concentrations for many people with arthritis and other conditions.

Aspirin, like all drugs, has some potential disadvantages. For example, it is known to cause some changes in the coagulation of blood. Therefore, it is rarely used immediately after surgery. Aspirin is also known to have distinct disadvantages for people who are known to have stomach ulcers. Not only is aspirin not injurious to the heart, but actually is used in some instances for the prevention of coronary artery disease.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

Concerning your recent editorial, "Sure She Would", I want to make the following comment.

I generally don't agree with Jane Fonda's politics, but she should be free to voice her opinions without recriminations to her forum. Colleges and universities have long had diverse speakers. It is this multifariousness that allows us to form our own ideas and opinions. We don't have to agree with the speaker.

Perhaps Dow Chemical should be supplied with a speaker list. There must be some labor leaders they would want to censor. Not many corporations are above criticism. Most roll with the punch. Not Dow, however. They used much the same tact totalitarian governments employ. When you are in disagreement, take reprisals. Dow Chemical couldn't close the doors of Central Michigan University, so they did the next best thing, they withdrew their endowments. One hopes Dow hasn't initiated a precedent. Our children will be the losers in the end.

Dear Editor:

This week has been proclaimed as National Family Week in recognition of the essential part the family plays in our society and our future. In the pressures of daily schedules, we should take time to come together to appreciate the roles fulfilled by each member of the family. It's fitting that this week of traditional thankfulness should be both National Family Week and National Bible Week. Traditional celebrations help family unity and spiritual closeness.

Dear Editor:

I have had the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat. I want to thank all the residents of Pickaway Twp. for voting yes on Issue 22 so that I could stay in business and keep the taxes in Pickaway County.

In a recent letter printed Nov. 7, 1977, by Rev. Heimbach, it was stated that Pickaway Garden Drive Thru had applied for and received a C-1 license. This however, was not true. Pickaway Garden did receive a C-1 license in November, 1976, but didn't apply for a new license in September of this year. Therefore, he went out of business. Rev. Heimbach was in the position to know this.

We will leave the voices of our taxpayers and great farmers of this township in command. Thank you again for your votes.

Yours truly,

Mr. And Mrs. Leslie Rihl Observe Golden Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. LESLIE C. RIHL

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie C. Rihl, 332 E. Union St. were guests of honor at a Golden Anniversary dinner hosted by their children on November 13 at the

Derby Garden Club Holds Meeting

Mrs. Wilma Beerman opened the November meeting of the Derby Garden Club with a poem by Helen Steiner Rice.

Fifteen members and four guests enjoyed the program presented by Mrs. Freda McPherson, member of Soliqua Garden Club. Mrs. McPherson used the fresh greens in a candle arrangement, with a Madonna figurine and in a fresh floral design. An attractive centerpiece using some dried plant material was displayed for use at Thanksgiving time. Mrs. McPherson left the group with many practical and useful ideas for holiday decorating.

Members heard suggestions from the Derby Valley and Prairie Gardener's clubs to open meetings with holiday themes. Derby club members, Shirley McPherson and Lois Ruoff were guest arrangers at the Derby Valley meeting "Holiday Arrangements."

The up-coming Pickaway County Council "Holiday Tea" and the Country Christmas Bazaar at Darby Elementary School were discussed. The Derby Club will serve as hostess club for the "Holiday Tea." Many items have been prepared for the garden club table at the Bazaar.

Plans to meet 7:30 p.m., Dec. 5 were made to prepare a holiday gift for area senior citizens. Mrs. Martha Buller and Mrs. Lois Ruoff will complete arrangements for the evening.

Following the meeting, desert was served by Mrs. Wilma Beerman and Mrs. Susie Furniss. The group then gathered for a holiday decoration workshop with Mrs. Shirley McPherson, Mrs. Carolyn Ohnewehr, and Mrs. Phyllis Kohli demonstrating many attractive ideas to the group.

Party Honors Sheri Leach

A birthday party was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leach, 190 Walnut Creek Pike on Saturday afternoon to honor their daughter Sheri Ann on her tenth birthday.

Games were played and prizes won by Christy Bryant and Kim Lovenshimer.

Others attending were, Diana Leach, Shauna Leach, Mrs. Donald Allen, Kim and Kellie Lovenshimer, Sheila Cline, Christy Bryant and Jennifer Peters. Following the opening of gifts refreshments were served.

Jill Metzger Hosts Homemakers

Fifteen members attended the Nov. 15 meeting of the Wonder Women Home Extension Club in the home of Mrs. Jill Metzger of Williamsport.

The money made at the bazaar was distributed and the club voted unanimously not to participate in the bazaar again next year.

Karla Barnes presented a discussion on choosing apples and their uses. Cindy Sykes presented a program on sewing for children on the grow. The information for both programs was obtained from the Mini College which was sponsored by the Pickaway County Extension Office.

Mrs. Jill Riddle will be hostess for the 7:30 p.m., Dec. 13 meeting. The program will be presented by Mrs. Cindy McCoy. She will use as her topic, "Making Christmas Ornaments from dough."

MONDAY
Pickaway County Women's Republican Club, noon, at the Pickaway Arms.

In an effort to keep society news current, The Herald has established the following policy concerning wedding news:

Wedding forms may be obtained at The Herald from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and until noon on Saturday.

It would be helpful to have the wedding form completed and returned with a picture three days before the wedding.

The Herald will make every effort to publish the story and picture on the next day of publication following the wedding providing the forms and picture are returned before the wedding.

No bridal pictures and stories will be accepted if submitted later than 30 days following the ceremony.

Pickaway Plains Chapter NSDAR Holds Carry-In Dinner Meeting

Pickaway Plains Chapter of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution held their monthly meeting, November 15, in the social rooms of the Community Methodist Church.

A carry-in dinner was enjoyed at 6:30 p.m. by the members with SAR members as guests. The invocation was given by Mrs. George C. McGhee, the Chaplain.

Miss Dehl Renick, regent, called the meeting to order in ritualistic form. The Pledge to the Flag was followed by the repeating of the American Creed.

National Defense was given by Miss Helen Mettler. She reviewed an article from the June 17, Congressional Record on "Human Rights" written by Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona. His article asked, "What Are Human Rights?"

Miss Mettler, the program chairman, introduced Mrs. Judd Dresbach who reviewed an address "What's Wrong With U.S. Intelligence?" given by Major General George J. Keegan Jr. recently retired Chief of Air Force Intelligence, at the March Eighty-sixth Continental Congress of the NSDAR in Washington D. C. Maj. Gen. Keegan is concerned with the Soviet threat and evolving world power balance. He is troubled about the wisdom of suggesting to the Free World that its defenses are not as effective as has been thought.

He stated that for more than 25 years the intelligence agency has consistently under-estimated the growth and evolution of Soviet military capabilities. Maj. Gen. Keegan has stood virtually alone within the United States intelligence community and governmental structure in his demands for a series of formal post-mortems and audits on the past forecasts of the intelligence community.

He urged that a group of disinterested, outside scholars, with no professional, private, or open links to the intelligence community, be brought in to perform an analysis and post audit of every intelligence estimate ever produced by the United States Government since the first national intelligence estimates developed many years ago. Such audits would record scrupulously where we have been wrong, where we have been right, where we have fallen short of the mark, or where we have exaggerated. Every such suggestion has been met with disdain and resistance.

The United States is superior in only one major combat area — its ability to respond quickly and efficiently to an nuclear initiative by the Soviet Union. That's where our superiority ends! Otherwise we are totally unprepared to wage and sustain strategic warfare — as are the Soviets. They have more staying power, are far better able to protect their society, their forces, their economy, and their war oriented industrial bases. Soviet forces today are premised exclusively on the principle that they must be prepared to wage war at all conflict levels and emerge successfully.

United States strategic forces and policy, in contrast, have been premised on the view that nuclear war was so horrible that it could not be contemplated in any rational environment. True, nuclear war must be avoided at all costs, but who believes that we should not be prepared for such aggression?

Hostesses for the November meeting were: Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, Miss Marie Hamilton, Mrs. George Bowling, Mrs. J. L. Chilcote, Mrs.

Kermit Dountz, Mrs. William Richards, Mrs. Fred D. Brown, Mrs. Ellery Elick, Mrs. Joseph Peters, Mrs. Charles Beckman, Mrs. David Pontious, Mrs. Fred Tipton, Mrs. Emerson Spicer.

Thanksgiving Feast For Poor, Elderly, Lonely Held In Albany

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — It's Thanksgiving dinner for the poor, the elderly and the lonely. But there's no mistaking this for a typical charity affair, what with turkeys basted in burgundy and candles glowing on linen tablecloths.

The eighth annual Thanksgiving Day Community Feast, organized by Refer Switchboard, a telephone hot-line service, is being held in the First Presbyterian Church hall here on Thursday.

The guest list, expected to number about 2,500, includes just about anyone who wants to come, the needy and the not-so-needy.

"Everything we do is done the long way, the way your grandmother would have done it. We baste the turkeys with butter, honey and burgundy wine. We start with fresh cranberries for our cranberry sauce," said Ronald Alheim, who serves as head chef.

Alheim's recipe for his turkey dressing emphasizes his point.

The ingredients are 60 pounds of onions, a case of celery, apples, 100 pounds of mushrooms, turkey giblets, Alheim's homemade croutons, fresh parsley, lots of sweet butter and the giblet juices.

For several weeks, volunteers have been on the phone daily, cajoling businesses and individuals into donating food or money or time.

A church trustee gave 1,350 pounds of food, including 500 pounds of butternut squash. Local supermarkets have given vegetables at cost or reduced rates. One baker donated $200; others gave pies and cakes.

The pace of preparation stepped up this week. At the church hall Monday, as one group helped unload food from trucks, others organized the cooking schedule and plans to take meals to about 850 persons, mostly elderly, unable to attend the dinner.

Cooking preparations begin today with squash peeling. On Wednesday, a small army of cooks goes into a round-the-clock session. Alheim, alternating between two church kitchens, will direct the slicing, dicing, peeling, mixing, stirring and basting.

The turkeys will be cooked in volunteers' homes until they are within 90 minutes of being done. They're taken to the church ovens for final basting and browning.

On Thursday morning, at about 7 a.m., volunteers will start warming the food that will be sent out to people across the city in vans lent by the Red Cross and other service organizations. Besides the turkey, dressing and cranberry sauce, those dinners will include stuffed celery, butternut squash, ham, a pint of milk and fruit.

At noon, the church hall will open for dinner and serve until everyone who arrives has been fed.

In the past, according to Alheim, the dinner has drawn people from all sectors of the community — "street kids, students, people alone, people whose kids have moved away and some people who just want to have a good community time."

Runs For Mayor

PAVO, Ga. (AP) — Janice Hart was in line to pay her qualifying fee to run for city council. But Mayor Ed Hutchinson suggested another post — mayor.

"Mrs. Hart ran for council last year and made a good showing, but lost," said Hutchinson. He said he advised her to run for mayor in the Nov. 28 election because the council races were "too crowded."

The mayor, who already faces opposition from Hershel Finch, said he's not worried about the extra competition.

"I feel the best will win, and there will be no hard feelings," he said.

Derby News

MRS. GEORGIA SWEET, 869-2462

On Thanksgiving Sunday, Pastor Linda Stafford spoke from the Old Testament from the Book of Ezra 1:3-4, and 3:10-13. She discussed with the children the true meaning of Thanksgiving. We thank Carolyn Ohnewehr for the beautiful flower arrangement for the altar on Sunday. United Methodist Church lay leader Mickey Phillips will speak at the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church on Thanksgiving Eve, and the Derby Senior Choir will be guest singers. There will be no choir practice on Wednesday evening.

Greeters at the Derby United Methodist Church were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Myers. The Derby Junior choir sang special Thanksgiving songs for the services. Our thanks to the United Methodist Women for the new look in the Fellowship Hall; they have hung new drapes the past week.

Next Sunday, Cub Scout Pack 847 will attend services during which there will be a short ceremony and they will present the Derby Church who sponsors them, a charter. The Pack will be receiving a special award for their outstanding summer activities.

The Brownie Troops in this area are hard at work making craft for Christmas. After the first of the year they will be starting their self-improvement course. This will last several months, and girls of all troops will design the material for their age group. It will cover nutrition, hair styling, hair care, skin care, proper manners, sensible clothing, how to walk and speak properly, for their individual ages. It will include tips on keeping good friends and how to be one. The course will culminate in a style show to be presented for the parents and each girl will receive a diploma.

They will decorate a tree in Derby at Christmas time with their own hand-made ornaments. In January they will be working on first aid for the older girls such as some light babysitting training. They plan to go from that to a Permanent Clown Unit for this area with each girl being made up as a clown complete with costume which her family will help her make. They will put on clown skits at various locations. They plan to have flower planting and hobby ideas for spring. They plan to prepare their own cookbook with their own favorite recipes or those of their mothers etc. Any girl will be proud to be a Brownie.

I received a lovely and inspiring letter last week from former Pastor Larry Zellers in which he stated he keeps in touch by reading a local paper. He is working from dawn to about dusk on his father's farm near Weatherford, Texas, about 60 miles west of Dallas. Their Groveport home has been sold. He is very pleased at the financial progress our church has made toward the parsonage fund.

Mrs. Shirley Wardell called, too late for last week's column with the following: son Mike who was 11 on Nov. 11, was guest of honor at his home at an after school party Nov. 10; there to help celebrate his birthday were Kim Usher, Tony Hill, Tina Goodwin, Todd Hill, Mandy Cooper, Stephanie Timbrook, Danny Ashcraft, Patty Curry, Wendy Jenkins, Jamie Rowland, Josh Curry Jr., Rob Tracy, Gregg Jeffries, and Mike's sister Debbie Joy. She also says that she, Gary, Debbie and Mike had as weekend houseguests their cousins Larry, Verna, David and Diane Hughes from Athens.

The Westfall High School marching band has been officially invited by the Kentucky Derby Festival Committee to participate in the 1978 Festival. The band, with its capable director and Westfall alumnus Mark Hooser, will perform May 3 in the Derby Marching Band Contest, and in the Festival Parade on May 4. Fund raising to finance the trip starts soon, and any donations will be appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Ward II, Debbie and Mike were Tuesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Deyo of near London.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Arledge of Harrisburg are proud parents of a 5-pound, 15-ounce daughter, Santina Marie, born November 11 at Madison County Hospital. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William Spradlin of Derby, Mrs. Lavonne Emrick, Mt. Sterling, and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Arledge of Williamsport.

Friends and former neighbors of the Bob Sweet family extend their sympathy to Iris his wife, his parents Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Sweet, sisters Bonnie and Patty and families and other relatives. Bob passed away unexpectedly a week ago at Madison County Hospital. He was 49.

A correction on the anniversary date of Mr. and Mrs. Brad Spradlin. They were married three years on Nov. 24.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reese of Derby are announcing the birth of a daughter Lisa Kay, on November 9 at Berger Hospital. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis of Derby; paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Leasure of Circleville.

A reminder of the Thanksgiving Banquet dinner scheduled at the Southwest Community Church of the Nazarene near Derby to be held Saturday November 19 at 6 p.m. at the Church.

A DERBY THANKSGIVING THEN AND NOW

In Darby Township in the 1880's a family sat together in their spacious log cabin before the huge open fireplace and watched the blazing fire. This family had come to the area from Virginia a few years earlier and settled on the level plains land near beautiful Darby Creek. They had made a makeshift sod home till the cabin was completed, and were now well established and comfortable as the times allowed. The man of the house retired early that night as he must go into the wilderness which surrounded them in search of game for the holiday feast a few days away. He must brave the great forest with its tall oaks, hardy maples, hickory, and red and white elms which grew there.

Game was plentiful and consisted of deer, wild turkeys, opossums, and rabbits, along with other small game, but the hunter risked his life to find them. There were also wolves, wildcats, and bears to reckon with, and he must be ever on the lookout for the numerous and ferocious wild boar which roamed there and would attack on sight. These were not edible but were considered pests and the men went in groups to hunt them down and kill them.

The Wyandotte Indians buried their dead there, and a number of skeletons along with guns and other implements were later plowed up by pioneers tilling the soil. The friendly Indians had seen how difficult winter was for the inexperienced white man and his family and had brought seeds to plant and offered food to help them. Thanks to them, twenty acres of the land had grown successfully. The Indian did not understand the white man's ways but enjoyed the food and the appetizing way the women prepared it. The food was cooked in the huge copper kettle which hung over the open fire, and the white man invited the savages to join them around the table to celebrate their first Thanksgiving.

The first Thanksgiving was held in America by the Pilgrims who landed on New England shores Dec. 21, 1620. Only half the original band survived that winter of hardships and heartbreaks. The specific date is not known or whether it was actually called Thanksgiving, but two years later a day was officially set aside for giving thanks for rain which ended a long drought. This day following the harvest came to be observed in all New England but not on the same day everywhere. It was not till the third year of the Civil War that President Lincoln proclaimed a National Thanksgiving Day on October 3, 1863. Then in 1951 Congress named the fourth Thursday in November as our official Thanksgiving and so it is today. Only once was it changed and it proved so unpopular that it was changed back the next year.

Today, we still observe the holiday with feasting, and for the same reasons along with a few new ones, but times and customs have changed.

Now, we need only to pick up the phone, call the nearest supermarket and order a ham or turkey for the occasion, or for a really large affair, the nearest catering service will prepare the food and deliver it ready to serve so you may relax and enjoy the food and company with none of the worries. Convenient, but I prefer the big family dinners when our family all came together for the day. I especially miss those Thanksgiving dinners at my grandparents' farm with aunts, uncles, and cousins gathered at the table with its snow white cover, heads bowed as we gave thanks with those we loved. It seemed Grandma was never so happy as when she had all her children there as she cheerfully prepared the big dinners for them.

Other countries celebrate Thanksgiving too. The earliest in Canada was held Oct. 9, 1879. In Ceylon, especially in the small villages, there are ceremonies after the harvest which in no way resemble ours for the celebrations have a pagan character more common to that of ancient Greece. A festival is held, with dancing, beating of drums and days of feasting. In the Virgin Islands there are two Thanksgivings, one on the day set aside by our country, and another giving thanks if there were no hurricanes during the past year. They then pray there will be none the following year. Following this event a "love feast" is held by parishioners of the Moravian Church. After the services the people feast on raisin filled buns and drink a bright red raspberry wine.

So when you sit down to Thanksgiving dinner this year whether it be a family affair or dinner out at a popular restaurant, give thanks, for we have come a long way since the pioneer days when our forebears braved the dangers of nature in order to live. We at least have a choice.

And remember to give thanks for all we have received in the past and for all the great things the future can and will hold for us all.

NEW YORK — Millions of Americans furiously protested against Abraham Lincoln when, 114 years ago, he proclaimed the first national Thanksgiving.

But then, millions of Americans would have protested anything President Lincoln might have done in that year. It was the height of the Civil War. Even his northern Republican faithful questioned the wisdom of urging the nation to give thanks while its sons and fathers were killing one another.

Yet Lincoln persisted. He declared that, even in the midst of "a civil war of unequaled magnitude," the country had been given a full share of "blessings of fruitful fields and healthful skies." And, he went on, "no human counsel

FBI Undermined Dissident Groups

WASHINGTON (AP) - Wildly imaginative tactics, some of doubtful legality, marked a 15-year FBI campaign to disrupt dissident groups. But many of the operations were failures even by the bureau's own standards.

The operations were detailed in 52,648 pages of counter-intelligence files the FBI released Monday under terms of the Freedom of Information Act.

The heavily censored files, covering activities from 1956 to 1971, describe the FBI's attempts to harass and disrupt groups ranging from the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the Ku Klux Klan to the Black Panthers and the Students for a Democratic Society.

The bureau already has released much material on the programs, dubbed Cointelpro by the bureau. Both the Justice department and the Senate Intelligence Committee have said many of the activities were illegal, but department officials concluded that criminal prosecutions were unwarranted.

What the latest files made clear was that the bureau launched Cointelpro with little apparent thought to its effectiveness, much less its legality.

A favorite Cointelpro tactic was anonymous letters and leaflets. Parents of student protesters received mysterious missives, often signed "Concerned Friend," warning of drug use whether it was true or not. Black Muslims in New York received comic books ridiculing Muslim leaders. Communist Party members received unsigned leaflets designated to foment dissension within the party.

But the FBI had no way of judging what impact such activities were having. Field offices frequently reported to headquarters that "no tangible results" were produced.

FBI agents in several offices told of efforts to pit one protest group against another. But often they reported that rivalry and internal dissension already were rampant and that no help from the bureau was needed.

San Francisco agents, however, claimed success in 1971 for an effort to split the Black Panther party into warring factions supporting Eldridge Cleaver, in exile in Algeria at that time, and Huey P. Newton.

The Cleaver-Newton split was widely reported at the time. Although the FBI took credit for it in internal memos, the reports listed no factual evidence to back the claim.

Other memos show that Washington officials often rejected field office proposals with a strong potential for disruption, not because of qualms about the propriety of such acts but because of fear that the FBI involvement would be publicized and would "embarrass the bureau."

Other ideas were rejected because headquarters officials considered them unnecessary, such as a proposal to install an FBI man as imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan. That idea was shelved in 1967 on grounds that the FBI already had enough informers in the Klan.

Various protest groups became Cointelpro targets after Director J. Edgar Hoover and his chief aides concluded that they were threats to domestic security. The protests had erupted in numerous violent incidents, and the bureau was under pressure to stop the disorders.

Youths Chased Into Police Station

DENVER (AP) — Two youths zipping through downtown Denver with the police hot on their trail made it easy on their pursuers.

They veered off the main street — and right into the entrance of police headquarters. The two were arrested Monday on suspicion of auto theft and attempting to elude police.

hath devised nor hath any mortal hand worked out these great things."

Although Honest Abe's first Thanksgiving Proclamation, delivered in the summer of 1863, is the most famous of any Thanksgiving address since (including Franklin Roosevelt's 12 successive and eloquent speeches), it is one of the few addresses that Lincoln ever "farmed out" to a ghost writer.

He was busy with affairs of war, and with his own personal problems. So he asked Secretary William H. Seward to compose the Thanksgiving Declaration — and Seward was one of the few men of that time with sufficient literary bent, and clarity of thought, to compose a masterpiece worthy of Abe.

Lincoln then read his friend's composition on August 6 — declaring the first Thanksgiving Day for Nov. 26, 1863.

In that same year, Lincoln declared two other unofficial Thanksgiving days: the first was announced for July 15, when the President asked Americans to give thanks for Gettysburg and the fall of Vicksburg, proclaiming it a day to give homage to the divine majesty for "the wonderful things He has done in the nation's behalf." The third Thanksgiving plea came Dec. 7, when Lincoln again asked his citizens to offer thanks to God after the expulsion of Confederate armies from eastern Tennessee. These obviously were partisan observances, quite unlike the official Thanksgiving.

The "Official Thanksgiving" in November was the result of 35 years of effort by the editor of a fashionable magazine of the times, Sara Josepha Hale; for three and one-half decades, she had badgered U.S. Presidents to establish a day of thanks. They always said no, thanks — until President Lincoln finally acquiesced. Many historians feel that even he might have rejected the request of the persistent Ms. Hale, were it not for the war, which caused him to be in a thanksgiving mood of prayerfulness.

For many years afterward, the national celebration was known as "Godey's Lady's Book Thanksgiving Day," after the magazine whose dogged editor devised it.

But as the decades passed, Thanksgiving became an acceptable and honored and celebrated day.

Sometime early in the 1970s, the week of Thanksgiving (this one, of course) became known as National Indigestion Week.

This dyspeptic occasion, listed in many current events calendars, does not list a sponsor. Nor does it recommend how to commemorate the queasy stomach, the vile headache, the aching midriff.

There is not even an appropriate suggested slogan, such as "Save the Small Intestine," or "Remember the Pain."

One would think that national galas would be planned. A "Bromo Ball," for example, or a "Digestive-Block Party."

But no. "National Indigestion Week" just sits there on the special events lists, largely unnoticed, somewhere between "National Eat Asparagus Week" and "National Bird Cage Day" — a subtle reminder to watch the gravy and skip the mince pie.

It's something to think about, that's all.

And if you think about it enough, your stomach may rise to the occasion.

Making Steel Is Exciting

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Advanced technology hasn't taken the thrill out of steel-making for Paul C. Wigton of the Republic Steel Corp. To him, the process still is "one of the most exciting things I've ever seen."

"Every time I'm back here and they're about to tap the heat at the BOF (Basic Oxygen Furnace), I stick around to watch."

"Hell, I've seen it thousands of times — I've been watching steel being made all my adult life — but I still hang around to watch," said the manager of Republic's Mahoning Valley district, which accounts for 23 percent of the company's national output.

The basic oxygen furnace here is the most modern steelmaking facility in the Mahoning Valley. It is an icon of what the other mills in the valley could be like.

But like the others, the Republic mill here is not immune to the American steel crisis.

Wigton acknowledges that part of his job is to insulate his mills from the retrenchment that he says will bring on the new steel industry — a smaller and more restricted one.

"My No. 1 responsibility is to keep the production as profitable as I possibly can and, at the same time, maintain the plant facilities so that the place doesn't fall apart," he said in an interview.

But things may not always be as they are now.

"Very definitely there are going to be several companies going the way of Alan Wood Steel (now bankrupt) and Youngstown Sheet & Tube (in financial difficulties). Whether there'll be three or five or seven left, I don't know. But I think that might be the trend," Wigton said.

And Republic will have some role in it, albeit an uncertain one, Wigton believes.

"I can say that we have committed ourselves to this area and this plant," he said. "That means we're going to stay."

The steel crisis has hurt Republic, although not as much as many other companies. While profits are way down, the company actually lost money only in the first quarter of this year, and much of that was attributable to the severe winter weather, according to Wigton.

ALL WEATHER BANKING AT THE SAVINGS AUTO BANK MEMBER FDIC

And because Republic has modernized its plants — in Warren with the basic oxygen furnace, a new strip mill and a $90 million coke plant now being built — "We have been, by comparison, in a rather good position," Wigton said. "We have not been tops in earnings but we haven't suffered that badly."

1977's Mid-State League Volleyball Coach of the year is Mrs. Linda Vaughan. This was her first year of coaching, and ending with a 12-0 season record, proves her to be great at it.
Mid-State League coach all vote on Coach of the year, but they also go by season record, naturally giving Mrs. Vaughan the honors as Logan Elm was the only undefeated league team.
When asked how she felt about being given this title, Vaughan replied, "I was really pleased, but it takes an exceptional group of girls to make a coach successful."
Mrs. Vaughan teaches 7th and 8th grade science and support math at McDowell Exchange School. She enjoys ballet, art, music and outdoor sports, especially golf and tennis. Mrs. Vaughan is also a 1965 graduate of Logan Elm High, which she said makes her extra-proud.

Harmony Night Held For Charity

By JANET KRAHN
Nov. 12 was the date for the Circleville Elks' Night of Harmony. Performing that Saturday night were the musical departments of Logan Elm, Circleville, Westfall and Teays Valley. Each school's choir sang 20 minutes to help raise money for the Cerebral Palsy Fund.
Barbershop quartet singing was also on the agenda with the Elk singers around, a group which consists of 30 people.
This musical night brought in much money for the fund. Last year $400 was received and it was a full house of over 600 people.
The proceeds are divided equally between the four county schools and the Cerebral Palsy Fund.

Consumer Prices Rose 0.3 Percent For Third Consecutive Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — A small rise in food costs held the overall rise in consumer prices to 0.3 percent in October for the third consecutive month, the government reported Tuesday.

The relatively small rate of increase, about 3.6 percent at an annual rate, reflected the declines in wholesale farm prices last summer that have continued to exert a moderating effect on retail food prices.

Grocery prices rose only 0.1 percent in October, the same as in September, and have been largely responsible for bringing down the nation's inflation rate since mid-year. Food costs comprise about one-fourth of the Consumer Price Index.

Consumer prices have risen at an annual rate of only 3.8 percent over the past three months. This is a marked improvement over the 10 percent rate during the first three months of the year, when the effects of cold weather and fuel shortages pushed up the price of food and other goods at a rapid pace.

Wholesale farm prices had fallen nearly 13 percent in May through September before jumping 2.4 percent last month.

However, government economists said not all of the decline had been reflected at the retail level and predicted that processors and other middlemen would be able to absorb some of the October increase in wholesale prices.

In October, the Labor Department said, the Consumer Price Index stood at 184.5, meaning that a marketbasket of goods and services selling for $100 in the 1967 base period now costs $184.50.

The index also showed that consumer prices in October were 6.5 percent higher than those of a year ago.

The purchasing power of the average worker's paycheck increased 1.1 percent last month, the largest gain this year. The government said this was due to a 1.3 percent increase in average hourly earnings combined with a 0.3 percent rise in the work week, which more than offset the pace of inflation last month.

Over the year, real earnings — take-home pay adjusted for inflation and taxes — have increased 4.6 percent. The over-the-year gain was due largely to the increase in the federal tax deduction that reduced withholding taxes in June.

Non-food prices also continued to moderate last month, rising by only 0.3 percent, about the same as in the four previous months. This came despite the fact that higher prices for the new 1978 model cars were introduced into the index for the first time in October.

The Labor Department said the new-car index rose 0.6 percent. However, used car prices fell 2.1 percent.

Prices for gasoline and motor oil jumped 1.4 percent last month, considerably more than each of the preceding two months. Clothing prices also rose in October following a decline in September, and prices for tobacco products continued to rise sharply.

The cost of services, including rent and utility rates, rose 0.4 percent in October, compared with increases of 0.5 percent in both September and August and monthly increases averaging 0.8 percent earlier in the year.

Charges for electricity declined slightly last month but natural gas costs rose sharply, the government said. Rents increased 0.4 percent, while the cost for medical care rose 0.7 percent.

Among food prices, there were declines for sugar, cereal and bakery products, ground coffee, eggs, dairy products and pork.

Fresh vegetable prices also declined last month following a sharp rise in September. Prices for fresh fruits turned up in October. Poultry prices increased after declining for four months and the price of beef rose for the second consecutive month.

Proposal Would Raise Oil Market Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration may agree to give the oil companies higher crude oil prices to help move the administration's embattled energy bill through Congress, Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger says.

A compromise to permit higher prices could "gain support from the industry" for President Carter's energy package, especially his plan to tax U.S. crude oil, Schlesinger told a news conference Monday.

Carter's tax proposal could force prices to the equivalent of the world market price, about $13.50 a barrel. The extra tax revenues would be rebated to the public to avoid a serious economic impact, but its initial cost would discourage consumption and penalize heavy users.

The concession to the oil industry would permit more crude oil to be sold under a higher price ceiling than at present. The industry has said higher prices would encourage exploration and production.

Schlesinger said, however, that the administration will continue to insist that natural gas price regulation be extended nationwide, including within producing states.

But he said the administration might accept a somewhat higher regulated gas price ceiling than the $1.75 per thousand cubic feet it has proposed.

Natural gas sold across state lines is regulated by the federal government. At present, it sells for $1.42 per thousand cubic feet.

But gas sold "intrastate" — within the state where it is produced — is not federally regulated and has been commanding close to $2 per thousand cubic feet.

The administration proposed to correct this imbalance by extending federal regulation into the producing-state market, while raising the national price ceiling to about $1.75.

The energy bill now is before a House-Senate conference committee which is in recess for the Thanksgiving holiday.

It is trying to resolve differences between the House-passed package of energy taxes to force conservation, and the Senate's program of incentives for producers and users.

Warning System Not Too Effective

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — The rockets zoomed, the smoke billowed and the lights flared, but in City Hall nobody could hear a thing.

Pyrotechnic Specialties of Utica, Ohio, put on the display Tuesday at three locations on the outskirts of Newark to test what was to be a new emergency warning system.

The rockets were launched to 1,200 feet, leaving billowing clouds of white smoke, a loud boom and plenty of light. Trouble was, a lot of folks in town didn't hear anything.

Herbert Weber, director of the Licking County Red Cross, has been working on the idea ever since the Xenia tornado of 1974. He says sirens cost too much and don't work during power failures. Besides, sirens are used for so many signals, people often don't pay any attention.

He said next time they'll send the rockets up higher and try to turn up the noise.

CADET OF MONTH — Michele Dean of the Williamsport Cadets was named cadet of the month. The 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Dean of Williamsport is a student at Jackson Elementary School. Gwinn Lane is the director.

Tigers, Vikings Tie In SCOL Cage Preview

SAILIN' SANDERS - Teays Valley's John Sanders is pictured above sailing to the bucket in Tuesday night's action at the South Central Ohio League preview held at Greenfield McClain High School. The Circleville Tigers' G.R. Yapple (50) and Rich Elsea (30) are attempting to stop Sanders' bid for a two pointer. The Vikings battled back from a sizable deficit to tie the Red and Black in the two period exhibition match-up.

Circleville and Teays Valley traveled to Highland County Monday night and put on another Pickaway County scorcher as the Tigers and the Vikings battled to a 32-32 tie in the opening game of the South Central Ohio League basketball preview at Greenfield High School.

Coach Dennis Stewart's Red and Black cagers broke on top and for a while it looked like Tiger Day but coach Bob Hoover and his Viking cagers had different ideas as they rallied to gain a deadlock as the two-quarter contest came to conclusion.

Both teams showed promise and could be league members who will have to be reckoned with as the season moves along. They both showed that they have the equipment and ability to beat people and will do so in league play and non league.

Scoring for the Tigers were: Roy Huffer, eight; Toren Bensonhaver and Pete Harrison, six each; Don Hill, four; Richard Pfeiffer, G. R. Yapple and Danny Martin, two apiece; Richard Elsea and Anthony Smith, one each.

Putting points on the boards for the Vikings were: Mark Blue, seven; Mike Fisher, six; Allen Ett and John Sanders, five apiece; Tom Pontius, three; Rick Queen, Scott Lutz and Jeff Welsh, two each.

Circleville will open regular play Tuesday at Washington C.H. while the Vikings will hit the hardwood Friday when they host the Hamilton Twp. Rangers.

In other SCOL preview action Tuesday night, it was: Miami Trace 26-Washington C.H. 25; Wilmington 35-Hillsboro 4; the floor lights went out during the Greenfield-Madison Plains game and we have not been able to find a score or if the game was completed.

Andre Dawson Top Rookie

NEW YORK (AP) — Centerfielder Andre Dawson today became the second player in the nine-year history of the Montreal Expos to win the National League's Rookie of the Year Award, beating Steve Henderson of the New York Mets by one vote.

"I'm very happy, regardless of how many votes I won by," Dawson said by telephone from his Florida home.

The 23-year-old Dawson, who hit .282 with 19 home runs, 65 runs batted in and 21 stolen bases, received 10 votes in balloting by a 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Henderson, a leftfielder, got nine votes, while first baseman-outfielder Gene Richards of the San Diego Padres received four votes and pitcher Floyd Bannister of the Houston Astros got the other vote.

Pitcher Carl Morton, who won in 1970, was the other Montreal player to take the prize.

"I was a bit surprised that it was as close as it was," said Dawson. "I'm not taking anything away from Steve Henderson. He's a fine ballplayer and had a super year considering the time he spent with the Mets."

Henderson joined the Mets from Cincinnati in the celebrated Tom Seaver deal last June 15. He didn't begin playing regularly until late that month, but finished the season with a .297 batting average, 12 home runs, 65 RBI and six stolen bases.

"Steve's a super player. I see him also as one day being a superstar," said Dawson, who combined with Warren Cromartie and Ellis Valentine to give the Expos one of the best young outfields in baseball.

Henderson became the second Mets player to finish second by one point in the rookie voting, pitcher Jerry Koosman losing the 1968 election to catcher Johnny Bench of the Cincinnati Reds by that margin.

Richards had a .290 average and 56 stolen bases, while Bannister compiled an 8-9 record for the Astros.

Miami Trace Dominates AP Grid Poll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Miami Trace, the second ranked statewide power from near Washington Court House, dominates The Associated Press' Southeastern District all-star selections in Ohio high school football.

Miami Trace quarterback Art Schlichter was the Southeastern Class AAA Back of the Year while his favorite target, end Bill Hanners, was designated as the area's top big school lineman.

A district panel of sports writers selected Miami Trace's Fred Zechman and Bob Boynton of Logan as the co-coaches of the year in area AAA competition. Both compiled 10-0-0 records this fall.

In Class AA, Mike Jupin of South Point was the top coach, his running back, Dane Conwell, the No. 1 back and defensive tackle Brett Robinson of Greenfield McClain the best lineman.

In Class A, Craig Spring, who led Crooksville to an 8-2 record and a state playoff berth in his second season, was the Southeastern's top coach. Tim Mowery of Piketon was the leading back and Oak Hill linebacker Doug Hale the No. 1 lineman.

Steve Cauthen Is Becoming Top Jockey And Individual

NEW YORK (AP) — Close to 2,000 races and $5.7 million in purse money later, Steve Cauthen's cap size remains the same — 6 1/2.

He plays racehorse rummy with the cook and jockey room valets, talks in low monosyllables, says "Yes, sir" and "No, sir" to his elders and never shows a trace of big-headedness nor arrogance.

Horse racing's Wonder Kid has grown into a man. And he has matured gracefully—all 95 pounds and 17 years of him.

"Great kid," remarked Glenn Sullivan, Cauthen's valet in the tack room at Aqueduct. "Never quick or jerky with anybody. Will always stop to answer when spoken to. Always polite."

Across the room, veteran valet Dick Dwyer, who services other leading jockeys, was quick to say "Amen."

"He hasn't changed a bit. Everybody likes him," Dwyer said. "from fellow jockeys down to the lowest help. When I met his dad I congratulated him. Steve's pop said, 'Yeah, the boy is winning a lot of races.' I told him, 'That's not what I mean. I mean a man had to do something right to turn out such a nice kid.'"

A phenomenal year is winding down for Steve Cauthen, the blacksmith's son out of Walton, Ky., who began the season as a raw apprentice and is ending it as the winningest jockey of all time for purse money in a season's stretch.

Back in those thick-carpeted offices where people scan the year's sports highlights and prepare year-end "Sports Emmys" for the transcendent performances, they are polishing the Grecian urns and the diamond-studded belts for the trail-looking youngster who has a magic touch with horses.

Tom Watson had a remarkable year in golf, beating Jack Nicklaus in head-

Emergency Messages Relayed To Hunters

COLUMBUS—The Ohio Department of Natural Resources' Division of Wildlife will assist families in relaying emergency messages to any of the 110,000 deer hunters expected to be afield for the 1977 deer gun season which opens Nov. 28.

Emergency messages will be broadcast daily at specified times by each of the six radio stations cooperating in the program.

Messages should be relayed through the Wildlife Division's district office located in Athens by phoning (614) 592-2333 or 593-6933 or by calling the participating radio station nearest the area where the individual is hunting.

"Hunters who have been out of touch with their families for several hours or longer should make a special effort to listen to the broadcasts during their midday break," said Dale Haney, chief of the wildlife division.

In addition to emergency messages, updated hunting information will be included in the broadcasts.

"This is an excellent example of public service broadcasting performed by these stations," said Haney.

The following listed radio stations will broadcast the emergency messages at the times indicated from Nov. 28 through Dec. 3.

WNXT-Portsmouth, 1260 AM, 99.3 FM, 12:15 p.m.; WILE-Cambridge, 1270 AM, 96.7 FM, 12:20 p.m.; WMOA-Marietta, 1490 AM, 94.3 FM, 11:55 a.m.; WATH-Athens, 970 AM, 105.5 FM, 12:35 p.m.; WBEX-Chillicothe, 1490 AM, 12:40 p.m.; WMPO-Middleport, 1390 AM, 92.1 FM, 1:10 p.m.

to-head birdie battles in both the Masters and British Open. Guillermo Vilas had a streak in tennis in which he was unbeatable. Ken Stabler and Fred Biletnikoff were titanic in football's Super Bowl. Reggie Jackson produced Ruthian home run feats in the World Series.

But Cauthen, just a slip of a lad, hung up figures that make him hard to beat as sports' Man of the Year.

Going into the final 10 days of November, he had amassed a total of $5,721,144 in purses, from 1,902 mounts on which he scored 452 victories, 312 seconds and 281 thirds.

Starting last winter, when he was yanked off the small Ohio tracks by agent Lenny Goodman and thrown in with the hardened Corderos and Turcotts at New York tracks, Stevie has been tumbling records as one might a row of dominoes. In January, as a 16-year-old apprentice, he set a New York record by riding 23 winners in one week. By Aug. 6, after bouncing back from a nasty spill that left him with crushed ribs and a broken wrist, he had won his 300th race, breaking a mark held by Jorge Velasquez, and by Oct. 4, he had bettered the all-time money mark set by Angel Cordero. He soared past the $5 million plateau Oct. 24.

Twice he rode six winners on one program. Four times he had five winners, 13 times four winners and 41 times three winners.

If anyone suspected that young Cauthen was a flash in the pan, such suspicions were erased when the fuzzy faced phenom rode Johnny D., a 10-1 shot, to victory over favored Majestic Light and Exceller in the Washington, D.C., International and repeated with an upset triumph over Majestic Light in the Turf Classic at Aqueduct.

"I thought the Turf Classic was a better race," Cauthen said. "The International was sort of a freak because of the slow pace. Everything was beautiful in the Turf Classic."

Cauthen is his own man, but if he has an idol, it is the ageless Bill Shoemaker. "Great head, good hands," he says. "Never a weight problem, never a worry. One in a million."

Where does a 17-year-old jockey go from a $5 million year?

"I would like to win the Triple Crown," Cauthen said. "I've been riding a good 2-year-old colt, Firm. He has seven wins and two seconds in nine starts. He could do it."

With Steve in the saddle, you can bet on it.

Walter Davis Makes Phoenix Sun Shine

By The Associated Press
Rookie forward Walter Davis is the Phoenix Suns' newest bright spot.

The 6-foot-6 forward from the University of North Carolina scored a career-high 34 points, nine in the last 3 1/2 minutes, helping the Suns to a 118-107 National Basketball Association triumph over the Los Angeles Lakers Tuesday night. It was Phoenix' fifth straight victory at home.

That's exactly what the Suns were hoping for when they went into the college draft in June. Both their forwards, Curtis Perry and Gar Heard, had missed much of last season because of injuries and Coach John MacLeod was seeking insurance in case one of them couldn't come back. He also wanted a player who could add some quickness to a relatively slow frontcourt.

In other NBA games Tuesday night, the Buffalo Braves edged the New York Knicks 102-101, the Denver Nuggets trimmed the Washington Bullets 119-114, the Philadelphia 76ers beat the Houston Rockets 106-99, the Milwaukee Bucks defeated the Golden State Warriors 109-88 and the New Orleans Jazz stopped the Indiana Pacers 123-118.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail VanBuren

Seller Of Shoes Sings The Blues

DEAR ABBY: I am writing on behalf of the salespeople who sell men's shoes.

When a man goes to a doctor for an examination, he at least unbuttons his own shirt. So why do some men come into a shoe department, sit down, and expect the salesperson to undress their feet?

The salesperson is supposed to try the NEW shoes on the customer, not take off the old ones; but when I ask a man politely to slip off his old shoe, he looks at me like I'm crazy.

And while I'm on the subject of men's shoes, when a man comes in to try on shoes and I ask him what size he wears, nine out of 10 times they don't know!

Can you believe that a 50-year-old man has no idea what size shoe he wears? So we have to look in his old shoe or measure his foot. This takes up time and most of us work on commission. It would sure help a lot of us who sell men's shoes if you'd ask your male readers to please be a little more cooperative. Thank you.

OLD SHOE DOG

DEAR DOG: Okay, here's your

Rats Problem Around Sandusky Bay

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — Ottawa County officials could use the Pied Piper of Hamelin.

Rats are creating a problem around Sandusky Bay and health officials fear they may spread into the Port Clinton community if they are not exterminated before the bay gets too cold to be comfortable.

John Baughman, chief sanitarian for the Ottawa County health department, said he has been told the county will appropriate funds to bait the rats.

The problem occurs because campers and fisherman in the area leave their trash in barrels there, Baughman said.

"It's a fairly isolated area, but we want to prevent the problem from getting worse," he said. "We think the state highway department should help pay because the property belongs to them."

Challenges Face Ag Industry

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two basic challenges face the agriculture industry, Arthur J. Scott, director of corporate planning services for Battelle Memorial Institute, says.

In an article in the November issue of "Battelle Today", Scott says the world's food problems will challenge both the food exporting countries and the developing countries to increase their agricultural productivity.

Scott sees many future opportunities for new technological developments in new plant varieties, growing techniques, animal care, pest control, and irrigation.

Battelle is involved in a variety of government and industry-sponsored research programs aimed at improving agricultural technology.

Flash Gordon

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

FOR THURSDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Especially favored now: career matters, opportunities to increase prestige. You may be given increased responsibility but, with it, there's increased potential.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Be prepared to cope with strangers, odd situations. Pinpoint objectives; be selective about activities. Step up momentum where possible.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Make sure you have checked all facts and factors before making agreements or commitments. But do not quibble foolishly and lose out.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): You now have greater freedom of choice and movement than you have had in some time; can also expect some invaluable help from a member of the opposite sex.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Be patient if temporarily stymied in some project in which you are involved. New factors seem to be up for consideration. Keep eyes and ears open!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Caution should be day's byword. Let others take the initiative. Stress your quiet, efficient manner and remain in the background as much as possible.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): You have advantages over others in certain respects and they over you in others. Capitalize on your talents and maneuver situations adroitly. New opportunities soon.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Be especially careful in personal matters, how you project your aims, desires. Act with discretion, perceptively.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23): Take precautions in written and verbal agreements and scrutinize all situations carefully. You could discover hitherto unrecognized benefits.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 24 to Jan. 23): You may have to revise some previously made plans, reevaluate conditions generally. Don't hesitate to ask questions, seek counsel where needed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 24 to Feb. 23): Manageability must be your keyword now—especially in areas where divergent opinions and various personalities may be encountered. Keen perception needed—AND tact!

PISCES (Feb. 24 to Mar. 23): Handle routine before attempting the new or extracurricular. Gains indicated in financial matters, public affairs and maritime interests.

YOU BORN TODAY are a progressive straight-thinking individual; an outstanding organizer, endowed with fine executive ability. You also have a talent for meditation and could excel in such fields as business-labor arbitration. As a leader in business, industry or banking, you are not only innovative, but can take past methods and improve on them until they are almost unrecognizable. You have a gift for writing and would make an outstanding journalist; could also excel at the law. Birthdate of: Spinoza, Dutch philosopher; William Buckley, Jr., writer, editor, lecturer; John V. Lindsay, ex-mayor of New York City.

Thomas Alva Edison was 30 years old when he invented the phonograph.

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — CBS has this special tonight. It stars an elderly, cigar-smoking gent who started in show biz at age seven, singing with the Pee-wee Quartet on New York's East Side.

You should see the show, "The George Burns One-Man Show," even though he shares the bill with Bob Hope, Ann-Margret, the Captain and Tennille and Gladys Knight and the Pips.

True, too much is made of the fact Burns now is 81. Indeed, the announcer jokingly says the guests are "standing by just in case" he requires help with this one-man show of his.

They help, but the truth is, Burns doesn't need it. His comedy timing remains razor-sharp and he exudes a sense of fun, an enjoyment of work, rarely seen on specials starring far younger lads.

Burns begins by noting he got Hope as a guest merely by calling him and coughing, causing Hope to be alarmed and summon backup acts, lest the hour prove too rigorous for a man of Burns' age.

This proves a running gag for the show, in which Hope and the rest kid the star, do their respective turns on the stage, then exit to let Burns solo with ancient songs and assorted drolleries.

Among other things, Burns notes he found a small hole in the wall between his dressing room and that of Toni Tennille. He pondered plugging the hole, he says, but "I figured why bother? Let her enjoy herself."

Hope, in his stint, observes that Burns has been an entertainer so long "he once told Noah he doesn't play cruises."

Because of Burns' advanced years, there's a pretty nurse on hand. She complains she can't find his pulse. He explains: "I live in Beverly Hills and have a unlisted pulse."

Good jokes and good times abound in this show. But the best moment is a shaggy vaudeville story he tells about the time he was 19 and lodged in an actors' hotel in Philadelphia.

The yarn concerns coffee, a maid named Trixie, the hotel owner, a tramp actor named Jack Milo and amour. And boy, is it complicated.

But it is mighty funny and delivered with such precision ... well, watch the show tonight and see the master at work for yourself.

Boat Registration Could Increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Registration fees for your boat could go up, but you could pay by mail and your outboard or electric motor would not be taxed, under a Senate bill set for consideration early next year.

"The major objectives," according to the sponsor, Sen. Anthony J. Celebrezze Jr., D-Cleveland, "are to eliminate the difficulties of registering watercraft, minimize registration requirements and provide additional funding to compensate for inflation and to initiate new capital improvements."

Celebrezze wants to do away with a $3 annual fee on motors and adjust the fee schedule and classification of watercraft to bring Ohio law into conformity "with most other states."

"The original registration and fee schedule was set up in 1960 and has not been revised or updated since," the Cuyahoga County lawmaker said. "We need to update these laws to provide additional funds and to keep present costs in line with the use of facilities."

Because the bill reclassifies boats by type and length, comparisons with present fees are hard to make, but the new schedule is generally higher.

Here are annual fees as proposed by the legislation: canoes, kayaks, rowboats and inflatable watercraft, $3; Class A (less than 16 feet long), $7.50; Class 1 (16 to 26 feet), $10; Class 2, (26 to 40 feet), $15, and Class 3 (40 to 65 feet), $15.

"Since all money paid through boat registration fees goes to a fund used strictly for boating services this legislation will benefit boaters," Celebrezze said.

Boaters will benefit directly through expanded programs and improved boating facilities, he said.

By basing fees on the type and length of watercraft, Celebrezze said fees would be commensurate with the type of docking and other facilities that must be provided.

The legislation is supported by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, which is responsible for watercraft supervision in the state.

Celebrezze introduced his bill last Thursday, conceding it would not get hearings until the first of next year. The lawmakers, for all practical purposes, are winding up their 1977 activities this week, and probably won't be back until January except for a possible session to act on gubernatorial vetoes.

A free car-care clinic for women will be conducted at The Firestone Store, 114 S. Scioto St. on Nov. 30 and Dec. 7. Each session will run from 6 to 8 p.m.

Subjects to be covered will include brakes, suspension system, electrical system, the engine and tires.

"The functions of these and other systems will be explained and proper maintenance techniques will be demonstrated," said Mike Golden, store manager.

"We decided to hold this clinic because of the great number of women who have to maintain their own automobiles," he said. "We plan to clear up the technical mysteries by using every-day language and to make it possible for these motorists to better maintain their cars at minimum expense."

The classes will be conducted by Glenn Griebel, retail passenger tire sales manager and Dave Walls, service manager.

Participants will receive car maintenance booklets for future reference. Reservations for the course can be made by calling the Firestone store, 474-3115.

Carter Interested In Egyptian-Israeli Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter may have seemed just an interested onlooker during the Egyptian-Israeli dialogue in Jerusalem, but appearances in this case were deceiving, according to Israel's ambassador to Washington.

As the envoy, Simcha Dinitz, emerged from the White House on the eve of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's arrival in Israel, a reporter asked, "Are the Americans pretty well cut out of all this?" Dinitz responded: "The fact that I have been in the White House three times in the last two days doesn't indicate that the Americans are cut out of it."

Indeed, Carter was in telephone contact with both Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin prior to their meeting. He is known to have urged Sadat to be of good cheer in the face of widespread Arab opposition to the precedent-shattering event. And he suggested to Begin that Sadat should not be sent home empty-handed.

White House spokesman Rex Granum says it is too early to assess whether Sadat took something home to Cairo.

For Carter, who has made the reconvening of a Geneva peace conference on the Middle East a priority goal, a successful Jerusalem summit was essential to show that the Egyptians and Israelis could sit down and talk.

As an exercise in symbolism, the weekend events could hardly have been more pleasing to the U.S. president, who has said he was moved by their emotional impact. Whether they prove to be the prelude to more substantive negotiations remains to be seen.

But whatever happens in the days and weeks just ahead, Carter can take considerable satisfaction in the mere fact that Sadat and Begin met and embarked on a personal dialogue.

Although the administration's Middle East policy has been under heavy fire at home, and not only from Jews, there seems little doubt that Sadat never would have launched his dramatic initiative had it not been for Carter's year-long efforts to prod all parties toward Geneva and, equally important, to encourage such Arab moderates as the Egyptian leader.

Carter certainly will not attempt to claim credit for the Begin-Sadat exchanges. In fact, however, they gave at least momentary fresh impetus to his peace-seeking efforts and could serve to quiet domestic discontent over his Middle East interventions.

If the president gains ground on this score, it will coincide with other foreign policy advances overshadowed by the jockeying in the Middle East.

Last week, for example, the Shah of Iran ended his state visit here by announcing that Carter had persuaded him to work actively to hold the line in 1978 on per-barrel prices dictated by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

That must be listed as a significant accomplishment because the shah had earned a reputation as a leading advocate of higher oil prices.

Carter's negotiators also are reported making progress toward fashioning a new strategic arms limitation agreement with the Soviet Union, another priority objective.

Although there are a number of SALT skeptics in the Senate, which would have to ratify a new treaty, news of negotiating progress was coupled last week with reports of Soviet concessions that presumably would make a final accord more acceptable here.

The president, in addition, has been picking up a few additional Senate supporters for the embattled Panama Canal treaty. Although Carter still faces an uphill battle for ratification, he can claim new momentum for his cause.

All things considered, the past week has produced a series of foreign policy pluses for an activist administration assailed by critics who have contended that, both at home and abroad, Carter has produced much sound and fury signifying very little.

Blue Lancers Win State Parade Corps Competition

THE BLUE LANCERS

John F. Kennedy High School was the setting for the Class AA NBTA State Corps Competition in Warren where the Blue Lancers Baton and Drum Corps of Circleville captured two first place awards for their performances in military and parade corps divisions.

In the parade corps division they were awarded the state title. The group is directed by Elaine Lloyd.

Corps competing in the contest were the Mohawks of Warren, Angel's Twirling Stars of Conneaut, Show Dolls of Niles and the Jazz Dolls.

The Blue Lancers made many adjustments to their performance since the state contest in June at Lancaster. Their score sheets have improved remarkably and many complimentary remarks were given by the judges.

The corps is now working towards the 1978 state contest to be held in June at Lancaster. Then they will prepare for the world military corps competition to be held in July at Notre Dame University, South Bend, Ind.

The Corps will be performing in the future as halftime entertainment for college and high school basketball games.

Members of the group are:

National Color Guard — Ronda Duncan, Louise Elliott, Molly McNaughton, Chris Nungesser; Color Guard — Tammy Bost, Carolyn Brown, Jackie Easter, Tami Logan, Kim Robinson, Sonia Topping; Twirlers — Sherry Bowling, Lori Haddox, Julie Harris, Kim Harris, Becky Hindy, Beth Hindy, Margaret Honeycutt, Dawn Hoover, Suzie Knece, Debbie Lemley, Diana Pennington, Annette Ross, Laura Schleich, Cathy Smalley; Percussion Section — Buddy Erwin, Jim Garrett, Steve Glasgow, Walt Rhodes and Mark Seaton.

MOUNDBUILDERS SPEAKER — At the Kiwanis Moundbuilder meeting Dick Hedges (right), introduced by Bob Rickerd (left), presented a program on fire prevention and preparation in the home. Showing slides of how fast fire spreads and that without a warning system, a family could be totally helpless within four minutes from the time a fire starts. Hedges stressed that only detectors with a UL or FM rating should be used and that the location of the alarm system is as important as the alarm itself. Persons interested in location of fire alarms for their homes should call the fire department.
